DENTIST WAS JOLLY SOUL

But He Had Been Celebrating, as Patient Found Out to His Sorrow.

Otis Harlan, the actor, has been going about with one eye looking like an old rubber overhose, says the New York Times. It appears that for some time he has been celebrating the anniversary of a tooth being pulled. He is now a jolly soul. After Mr. Harlan said down he became convinced that the dentist had been celebrating some anniversary. He could not find anything wrong with any of his teeth, and he decided to return the next time he worried.

That happened several times. At last the tooth got to aching for fair. Harlan waited until his face began to swell slightly—enough so he could mark the spot with a cross and be certain of finding it afterward. Then he went into the dentist's office.

The dentist was a jolly soul—a very jolly soul. After Mr. Harlan said down he became convinced that the dentist had been celebrating some anniversary. He could not find anything wrong with any of his teeth, and he decided to return the next time he worried.

"Uh," groaned Harlan. "Ho! Uh, uh, uh! You've got hold of my lip."

"That's all right, Mr. Harlan," said the dentist, smiling vaguely. "That's all right. Don't you let that worry you, Mr. Harlan. I got hold of the tooth, too."

MURAT SHOWED HIS WISDOM

Waited for Napoleon to Give Him the Hand of His Youngest Sister, Caroline.

"I wish that some of my field marshals had taken the precaution not to marry when they were only sergeants," Napoleon is supposed to have grumbled, when he saw some of the ladies at his court. Murat, the dashing leader of cavalry at Marengo, did not make the mistake of his fellows, and waited for Bonaparte to give him the hand of his youngest sister, Caroline.

With her he reigned over the Two Sicilies as Joachim I. Wishing to stand well with the queen, the bishop of Palermo gave her a birthday present of one of Simon Yotter's "Hours of Hours," printed on vellum in 1498 by Pierre Pigoucheur of Paris and containing 12 fine large wood cuts. Recently this relic appeared in the library of the late Louis Lady Ashburton at Sotheby's and realized $235 (Sabin). It may, therefore, go to America, whether Murat and Caroline's son, Napoleon Achille, went and married a niece of Washington—London Telegraph.

Test of Friendship.

A member of the board of education who was present at the recent commencement exercises in Sumner Avenue school, says the Newark News, heard James L. Hays relate an incident which defined the word "friend."

It is well known that Mr. Hays is a little fellow, and that he is a friend of the school. His happy faculty for gaining the confidence of the youngsters was responsible for his being in their hearing when two jolly fellows were conversing. Here is one coming citizen's opinion of a friend indeed, as the member of the board heard it:

"Say, Jimmie," said an urchin to his playmate, "tell me what is a friend."

"I think," replied his companion, "that a friend is a fellow who knows all about you, and yet likes you."

THE TRUCK PATCH

By JEANNE O. LOIZEAUX
 (Copyright, 1912, by Associated Literary Press.)

As the six o'clock stream of shop girls came from the side entrance of the big store, Mamie left it carry her along. She lifted her thin hands to pin the big, flamboyant hat to her tousled fair hair. Her thin shoulders stooped a little, and she walked with the weariness of the first evening of hot days of spring. It was Saturday night, and she was wondering if she could afford a really satisfying supper.

A big, browned, awkward young fellow came up from behind and fell over her with a great deal of gusto, and some girls behind her giggled.

"It's only me, Mamie. I won't eat you!"

"I told you not to hang about for me," she said.

"I don't hang about for any girl, and you know it. I purposely got here just in time to catch you. When are you going to marry me?"

"Never, and you know it. I've said it often enough." She gave a backward glance and saw that the other fellow was still there. "Will you please go home and get your things? You are going to marry me?"

"Never, and you know it. I've said it often enough." She gave a backward glance and saw that the other fellow was still there. "Will you please go home and get your things? You are going to marry me?"

PAY ACTORS BY THE YARD

Illuminating Statistics Come to Light in Suit Brought by Moving Picture Concern.

Bernhardt's acting is worth a cent a yard, Coquelin's costs 5 cents and Eva Lavalliere can and does draw 10 cents for every three feet of her posing. These illuminating statistics came to light in the course of a suit which one of the picture companies is bringing because several miles of the product furnished them was said to be below standard.

That acting ought to be paid for by the yard is no new idea, although it is not generally stated with such brutal frankness. An evening's "entertainment" has to last a certain conventional number of minutes, or it is not worth the money. It has to be cut into a conventional number of pieces and adorned with a certain kind of conventional embroidery. The "star" has to be on the stage a good portion of the time; in other words, he or she must contribute a certain number of yards of acting at every performance or the public will go where they can get more stuff for their money.

Bernhardt gets less from the moving picture people than Lavalliere—about one-tenth as much. That, also, is a good concrete illustration of the market tendencies which we deplore in theory and encourage in practice throughout our own theatrical season. Public demand, after all, determines the price if not the values of the theatrical commodities just as it does in other industries. If we can be induced to pay most for the tinsel and least for the shoddy and the highly colored cotton, it is hardly fair to put all the blame on the managers. To use one of the classical expressions of our modern Hailo, theatrical managers are not "in it for their health."

HAS NURSED FOR 45 YEARS

Remarkable Record of Woman Who Assisted Lister in First Antiseptic Operations.

In connection with the death of Lord Lister it is interesting to know that the nurse who assisted the famous surgeon with his first antiseptic operations is still in the Glasgow Royal Infirmary. Nurse Bell has some interesting stories of the old days when Professor Lister was in the infirmary, and the crowd of students and dressers, many of them now chiefs, who attended the classes from 1861 to 1869.

Nurse Bell has been in the Royal Infirmary for 45 years. She is now 89 years of age, and enjoys good health, though not able to do much. When Lord Lister was presented with the freedom of the city of Glasgow four years ago, it was his special desire that Nurse Bell should be present at the function in St. Andrew's hall. When the memorial service was held in the university chapel she had a special invitation to be present.

What the Mosquito Costs.

The foremost authority on the mosquito, Doctor Howard, of the department of agriculture has more than once called attention to the enormous money losses caused by mosquitoes. It appears that the value of real estate in regions infested by them is reduced beyond calculation. The development of one whole state—New Jersey—has been held back by the pest.

In general states lands eminently fitted for grazing and dairying cannot be effectively used for such purposes because of the attacks of mosquitoes on the cattle, thus reducing the yield of milk. In the vicinity of New York and Philadelphia there are large areas of land rendered almost uninhabitable by swarms of these insects, and this notwithstanding the advances made in the destruction of their breeding places.

In some parts of the northwestern states horses must be covered in the daytime with sheets to protect them from the attacks of mosquitoes. It has been estimated that the cost of horse screens in the United States is something like ten millions of dollars.

Goethals Told Them How.

The following story is told of Col. George W. Goethals, who is the time it took place was an instructor in engineering at West Point.

One day, in a recitation, he gave out this question to a class of cadets: "The post flagpole, 60 feet high, has fallen down. You are ordered by your commanding officers to put it up again. You have under your command a sergeant and ten privates of the engineer corps. How would you get the pole back into place?"

Each cadet, after long consideration and much figuring over derrick, blocks, tackle and so on, evolved a different method.

"No," said Goethals, "you are all wrong. You would simply say: 'Sergeant, put up that flagpole!'—Saturday Evening Post.
